This is an ideal opportunity to leave behind the common distractions at home and concentrate on exam preparations within an atmosphere of intense study. The timetable will guarantee a high number of hours to study each day, with breaks to help you keep your mind fresh and alert. This week is a challenge. It is for those seriously wanting to give of their best in forthcoming examinations, helped by the presence of others intent on using the time well.

It will take place at Thornycroft Hall in the heart of the picturesque Cheshire countryside. It is a week for revision and thus to do without mp3 players, mobile phones and the Internet. Accommodation will be in single rooms and the study room area will have plenty of space for you to spread out your books and notes. The staff of the Conference Centre will provide all meals and there will be plenty of coffee and tea breaks to keep up the concentration levels. There will be sports, table tennis and Ultimate Frisbee in the breaks.

What should I bring?

We will be travelling up by minibus from London, so there is plenty of room for as many books and reference materials as you may choose to bring. Ensure you are well kitted out with pens, pencils, paper and calculators, plus any past papers or syllabuses you are able to bring along without Internet access. In addition, bring changes of clothes and plenty of sports kit, pyjamas, wash kit and a warm coat. You will not need much spending money.

Who runs the Study Week?

The Intensive Study Week is an activity of Kelston Club & Study Centre. Through a varied programme of activities and events, Kelston encourages young people to use their time constructively and to improve their ability to study well. Open to all, spiritual activities are entrusted to Opus Dei, a personal prelature of the Catholic Church.
